HOUSE TO HEAR S. F. SPAN PLEA

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Hearings on the San Francisco Bay bridge bill will open on March 21, before the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. Chairman Parker of that committee announced today. This will be the first time that an application for bridge construction has been heard by the full membership of the committee, the custom heretofore having been to send such applications to a sub-committee.

Proponents of the bridge project have been advised that City Attorney O'Toole and Supervisor J. B. McSheehy of San Francisco, will be here for the hearing, which may last two days.

One point which probably will be determined at the beginning of the hearing is whether the secretary of war is clothed with authority to disapprove construction of the bridge even if permission to build it should be granted by act of Congress. An opinion to this effect was expressed recently by Representative E. E. Denison of Illinois, chairman of the sub-committee on bridge reports, in a hearing on a bill to construct a bridge across the Delaware river. It has never been officially upheld by the judicial branch of the government. Representatives of San Francisco's interests believe they will be able to dissuade the committee from endorsing such a interpretation of the war department's authority.

The actual merger will be completed when Will C. Wood, state superintendent of banks, approves the deal.

SAN FRANCISCO CLASSED THIRD IN U. S. PORTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—San Francisco Bay ranks among the first three ports in the United States with one of the finest harbors in the world, according to a long delayed report of the Bureau of Operations of the United States Shipping Board in co-operation with the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors of the War Department, made public here today.

The report deals with traffic through the Golden Gate to San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley, Richmond, upper San Francisco Bay, Santa Cruz and Monterey.

NEW YORK FIRST
"In 1925 the total freight tonnage, foreign and coastwise, in and out of the Golden Gate, was 27,995,000 tons, which places this channel third among the approaches to salt-water ports of the United States the entrance to New York harbor and Chesapeake Bay, being first and second, respectively, of this 9,200,000, or 35 percent, pertained to the Port of San Francisco proper," the report states.

"Among the Pacific ports, San Francisco maintains its supremacy in miscellaneous general import and export traffic. In 1925 San Francisco handled 43 1/2 percent of such export traffic through Pacific ports, as originated at points in the United States outside the western tier of states (Washington, Oregon, California, Montana, Idaho, Nevada and Arizona), and 60 percent of the imports through Pacific ports destined for American territory outside these eight states." In other words San Francisco handled 51 percent of all imports and exports on the Pacific coast. It is thus the leading Pacific port for the eastern and central portions of the country.

38 LINES
"San Francisco's general import and export trade is largely with Europe and the Orient although there are important movements to and from other ports of the world. In all, the port has 38 regular steamship lines in foreign service, of which 13 ply to the United Kingdom and Europe, 15 to the Orient and Australasia, and 10 to South America, Central America, Mexico, the West Indies and Africa. There are 14 lines operating in intercoastal trade between the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific coasts, seven engaged solely in coastwise trade along the Pacific coast and one line engaged in domestic trade with the Hawaiian (Continued on Page Eight)

He started this morning from Port Darwin on his next-to-the-last hop to his home town of Sunderland.

113 RESCUED IN EXPLOSION AT ARK. MINE

(By Universal Service)
JENNYLAND, Ark., Feb. 24.—With the rescue of eight more early tonight, the death toll of this morning's explosion at Maun coal mine here is believed to stand at 12.

Those rescued tonight said the other 12 men were buried alive in the explosion. The eight men were in a serious condition from the effect of gas.

Spurred on by sobs and cries of women and children for their loved ones, several rescue crews tonight continued to dig into Maun coal mine here for the bodies of the men who are still buried in the mine following an explosion early today, which entombed 125 miners for three hours.

Rescue crews, blasting their way into the mine, immediately after the explosion, brought 105 of the entombed miners to the surface. Thirty-six of these were injured and still in hospitals here and at Portsmouth tonight. Others were overcome by gas and revived when brought into the open.

WIVES KEEP VIGIL
Wives, mothers and children of the missing men were keeping a vigil tonight at the mine. They are kept inside a roped-off section near the entrance to the mine, where workers are frantically digging for their loved ones. They waited without food. Even the most optimistic around the mine tonight held no hope of finding the other men alive. Miners who were rescued before noon today said they were buried under several tons of earth in the explosion.

Claude Speigel, State mine inspector, was here tonight directing the rescue work. Speigel will also conduct an investigation into the cause of the explosion. Belief was expressed tonight that escaping gas from the mine became ignited and caused the terrible blast.

At the present rate of crews working at the mine, it is believed the bodies of the 20 men will be extracted sometime tomorrow, while work is being rushed to reach them earlier if possible.

The explosion occurred just below the surface in coal mine No. 5, early today and for three hours held 125 miners entombed. Blast of rescue workers, who immediately stopped all other work at the mine and went to the rescue of the imperiled men, saved 105 of these men from certain death.

As Deputy County Clerk L. R. Geyer prepared an envelope containing the marriage license for mailing to Nilsen, Mrs. Barry telephoned him to hold up issuance, declaring that her daughter is one year younger than the 18 years she professed when she applied for a license with Nilsen last Monday.

Geyer asked the mother to send an affidavit here setting forth the girl's correct age.

Union High School Stages Exciting Airplane Meet

Before a crowd of more than 50 students of the Richmond Union High School, the Aviation Club of the school staged an airplane endurance contest in the gymnasium, as a preliminary to two more meets to be held before the school term closes.

J. A. Vincent won first prize when the machine he had constructed and entered in the contest stayed in the air for 16 seconds.

Clarence Overaa's plane took second place with a record of 12 seconds in the air. The plane entered by Harry Tezzi took third prize by staying in the air for 11 seconds.

The meet was under the direction of Herbert E. Welch, advisor of the club. Proceeds of the meet will go into the treasury of the club, and will be used for the purpose of holding future events.

EL CERRITOAN INVENTS PLANE

An airplane of many unique features has been invented by S. H. Capelli, 915 Donal avenue, El Cerrito. Two propellers to enable the plane to rise out the ground and two propellers to drive the ship forward while in the air are the outstanding features of the new model. The wings are hollow and there are no braces and struts exposed to view. The fuselage is completely closed.

The plans is constructed that it may land in water, and the propellers being used to navigate the plane. The landing gear has been constructed so that it may be pulled into the cabin while the plane is in the air.

Added safety is given the plane by the fact that the multiple propeller system allows the repair of one motor while the other engine keeps the ship in the air. Capelli is now planning to have local interests make it possible for a model plane to be constructed, as the experimental model is too small to allow actual flying.

With these difficulties settled the franchise is expected to be granted next Monday.

A PROPHET DISHONORED

Orville Wright is another prophet who has had to go to another country to find the honors that are his due.

With full recognition refused in the United States, he has sent the famous airplane in which the first successful flight of history was made to the British Museum in London.

His action was taken because our own national Smithsonian Institution failed to accord to Orville and his brother Wilbur their unquestioned right to primacy in aerial navigation.

Such an attitude on the part of the Smithsonian authorities demands a thorough investigation.

If politics have penetrated that institution they should be rooted out.

Moreover, those, if any, who have permitted personalities to influence their actions should be kicked out.

This nation regards with deep affection the work of the two boys from Dayton, O., who first conquered the air.

The names of the Wright brothers will go down in history emblazoned in glory.

The machine in which they made history should be preserved in hallowed reverence in our own land. Steps should be taken to get it back.

THE VALUE OF EXERCISE

Jose Capablanca, second best of the world's greatest chess players, admits that he lost to Dr. Alexander Alekhine for lack of proper exercise.

"Chess," says Capablanca, "is like every other form of exercise, physical or mental. You have to keep working hard at it to maintain top skill."

"To win or maintain a championship one should be playing all the time."

There is a practical lesson that should be of benefit to every one.

Exercise cannot be deferred until tomorrow or next week if one wants to keep muscular and brain tissues in smooth, efficient working order.

The man or woman who fails to observe this simple bit of advice is permitting the most valuable machinery in the world to deteriorate for lack of proper care.

The Soviet proposed full world disarmament within four years which reminds us of that Trojan prophet said about fearing the Greeks even when they were trying to hand you something.

Speaking of unjust discrimination, how about the bald headed man? He has to pay as much for a haircut as the fellow who is thatched like a bolshevik.

We may as well be prepared to understand that the noise you will hear over the radio when the politicians take the air will not be a lack of party harmony, but static.—Atlanta Constitution.

American Girls Know Makeup

THEY look like different girls, don't they? But they are not. The important part that spectacles now play in stage makeup is illustrated by these photographs of Ethylene Clair, a Universal screen player. In one photo she wears the metal frame or rimless glasses of grandmother's day, which help to make her look old fashioned, despite the curls and are in striking contrast to the modern shell rim spectacles she wears in the second picture. The typical American girl doesn't lose a trick nowadays.

VIGOROUS HEALTH

SHOULD WE HAVE TONSILS? Some of both sweet milk and buttermilk. The latter combines with foods, except meat and acid fruits.

Can anything be done for a hunchback? A friend of mine has been that way since a child. He is now forty years old.—MRS. SAMUEL P.

When such a condition has been present since childhood it is usually a result of spinal tuberculosis and since this is followed by ankylosis, there is nothing to be done to straighten the spine. Attempting to break an ankylosis usually only results in more trouble.

It seems almost incomprehensible that the question as to whether we should have tonsils could have arisen. We might as well ask "Should trees have leaves?"

Should cats have whiskers? Should the moon shine? To say that the tonsils have outgrown their usefulness and are now only vestigial organs is folly. If they were not active functioning tissue they would not be subject to inflammation. In fact the body would have cast them off long ago, the same as it does a frozen finger or any other useless tissue.

Removal of the tonsils does not remove the cause of anything but if you remove the real causes of the trouble by fasting, proper diet and general health building measures, the tonsils will gradually return to normal.

What can I do for a constant cough? There does not seem to be much mucus. The cough is very annoying.—MRS. JONES

Such a cough may be due to a dry catarrh, to nerve irritation from various sources or to spinal subluxations. A personal examination would be necessary to find the source of the trouble. However, a few days on fruits is always helpful and if this is followed by a correction of all the habits of living there should be improvement. Spinal manipulation may be required and should be helpful in any case.

Has buttermilk the same food value as whole sweet milk? It is more healthful than sweet milk! What foods can it be combined with.—COOK

Buttermilk does not contain as much fat nor quite as much sugar as whole sweet milk. Both forms of milk have their advantages, however, and one cannot be said to be any more healthful than the other. I know that many dieticians claim that buttermilk is the best because of the lactic acid it contains, but I find that it is right of my hair when I discovered it in other respects there should be no special need for this acid. A mistake. good plan in most cases is to use

A new sports scarf is in the form of a handpainted triangle of green crepe de chine, bordered with white stripes, and with a large white initial in the point at the back. The scarf ties in the back. The scarf ties in the back. The scarf ties in the back.

Something new in handbags is the pouch affair of pigskin with two small pockets on the outside. These tiny pockets are held in place by silver metal bands.

A cunning pair of pajamas for the junior miss is made of rayon, with contrasting borders, and has an amusing motif painted in gay color on the blouse.

WHY I BLUSHED

Not wishing to be too conspicuous going down by subway in evening clothes, I wrapped up my evening slippers, expected to change when I reached the hotel. I was as happy as a lark when my boy friend escorted me into the ballroom, but noticed everybody because of the lactic acid it contains, but I find that it is right of my hair when I discovered it in other respects there should be no special need for this acid. A mistake. good plan in most cases is to use

Affairs of the Heart and Your Marriage Problems

Patricia Lee

Patricia Lee answers questions relating to problems of married life. Names and address should be added to letters as a mark of good faith but will not be published. Readers who desire private answers, should enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin to cover cost of typing, etc. Because of space limitations it is not possible to print answers to all letters received, and readers who wish an early reply should take advantage of this special service. On account of the large quantity of mail coming to this department, about ten days should be allowed for a reply. Write to Patricia Lee, care of this paper.

When security and love are both placed in the scales, they seem to exactly balance each other. Otherwise there is not even a comparison possible. If you find yourself weighing the advantages of being supported against a feeling you think is love—look out!

Dear Patricia Lee:

I am a girl 21 years old, and I have a boy friend 27. I met him two years ago and we have been sweethearts ever since. I know he loves me dearly and he is willing to do anything to make me happy. Then I have another boy friend who is only 21, as I am, but he does not like to work, and seldom has any money. But I feel that I love him, and feel only as a friend toward the other fellow, although he always treated me respectfully, the younger fellow does not. Now the first boy asked me to marry him, and he doesn't know I have another boy friend. I have been dreaming of a little home of my own, as my youth are on either side. Do you think, dear Miss Lee that I should accept him and forget the other boy? I know the one I love could never give me the home I dream about. Am I wasting my time on him? Do you think I could learn to love the older boy friend more? If I thought I'd spoil his life and not be able to give him as much as I get from him. I'd rather suffer myself and tell him I don't love him enough to get married to him. He is too nice a fellow to fool.

Please give me some advice, as I don't know what to do.—Sincere, Dear Sincere

Don't you see what you are doing? You are putting one man on the scales and calling him Home, and the other young man on the opposite side—calling him Love. Now, what's wrong with that? Just this—that you cannot separate Home and Love. If you really love the younger man, you could not consider a home with him; and if you really thought the man who proposed meant the home you have been dreaming of, you could not feel toward him only as a friend. Home is a matter of feeling, not of four walls and a roof. So do not marry this young man with the unfair thought that you may "learn to love him more." I know that you want to play square, my dear, and I think you ought to, in fairness to him, keep him hanging on a longer. The fact that the other boy friend cannot support you at the present time need not matter. Love can wait. A home and steady income should be assured before marriage, but that alone should never lead you to the altar.

AS HE WAS GONE BY

A carpenter sent to make some repairs in a private house, entered the apartment of the lady of the house with his apprentice and began to work.

"Mary," said the lady to the maid, "see that my jewel case is locked up at once."

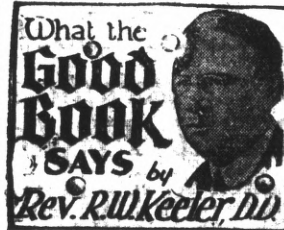

The carpenter understood. He removed his watch and chain from his vest, in a significant manner and handed them to his apprentice.

"John," said he, "take these right back to the shop. It seems that this house isn't safe."

THERE'S A REASON

KEN MAYNARD IN WESTERN AT THE CALIFORNIA

Ken Maynard, the riding fool of the western pictures, galloped on the screen yesterday in "The Red Raiders," the new feature attraction at the California Theatre.

"The Red Raiders," adapted from Marion Jackson's story, "The White Horse Troop," provides the dash, the western star with an ideal vehicle for his varied talents. The picture is crammed with pulsating drama, high action in riding and fighting and combines to make a super western.

The Charles R. Rogers company, in diverting from the usual types of western drama, selected a story from the stirring pages of pre-civil war history. This may have been done before, but not with such accuracy to detail nor on such a massive scale.

Maynard's climb to the top rank of western heroes is well merited, for each successive picture goes further to prove his fitness for his role. He is surrounded by an excellent supporting cast, with Ann Drew, the newcomer to films, opposite him in her debut as a leading woman. She is a perfect type for Maynard and impresses in the part of Jane Logan.

The pictorial scenes are exceptionally fine, and the entire locale of the story has been selected with good taste.

Other features on the same program include "Bigger and Better Blondes," a Charley Chase comedy; "Pathe Review"; "Current News Events"; and Larry Canelo, at the organ.

Life Cheap In Honduras, But Is Not Stylish Says Curator

By MAURICE LAZAR

CHICAGO, Feb. 24.—Oh for life in British Honduras!

Returning from a two and a half months' expedition to that country, J. Eric Thompson, assistant curator of Mexican and South American archaeology for the Field Museum here, brings word that for $2.50 a month, you can rent a house. And—get this—for $2.50 a month, they throw in board, three square meals a day. You won't be entertained just as Col. Lindbergh was, but you can survive on it.

At this rate, a person with a small income can spend a lifetime's vacation, especially at the Maya Indian village of San Antonio in the British Honduras.

HOT DISHES
But, wait a minute. By a house, is not meant for a moment, a brick-walled oil heated structure with all the modern improvements, running water, electric lights and so forth.

For as Mr. Thompson explains it, a house in San Antonio is a one-room hut, with a mud floor, a palm roof, and no conveniences. And the menus offered by your Maya boarding house keeper will frequently contain the following dishes:

Stewed monkey meat, with chili.
Roast parrot, with chili.
Armadillo steak, with chili.
Tortillas with chili.

Cocoa (with no chili this time) without milk, but containing very hot pepper and corn.

From two things the diner in the British Honduras (native style) does not escape—chill and corn.

Living in one of these native huts, Mr. Thompson ate with a Maya family, as part of his program in conducting intimate ethnological studies of the tribesmen, who are descendants of the old Mayas, founders of one of the oldest American civilizations. During his stay, he made a collection of native garments for the museum.

"NICE PEOPLE"
"The modern Mayas are a very decent sort of people," he said here, on his return, "although the time-honored custom of wife-beating is still much in vogue. The men are completely masters of their households. While Christianized to a large extent, they still indulge surreptitiously in pagan ceremonies. These include dances, pagan prayers, the burning of incense, and night-long rituals."

While in the British Honduras, Mr. Thompson inspected some recently discovered ruins of ancient Maya civilization at Pusihla, on the Guatemala border, which date back at least to the year 314 A. D.

SALES SENSE SUGGESTS

TELEPHONE Convenience

Calls to customers off the beaten path bring business and good will, save time and expense.

The thoughtful call between trips keeps fresh that personal contact of salesman and customer.

The occasional call from the sales manager or other executive of "the house" emphasizes the value of that customer's account.

Checking deliveries, tracing shipments, adjusting complaints, or in fact anything that can be done in person can be done better by telephone—because it's quicker and costs less.

The many new and practical uses of telephone service as a business tool will be cheerfully discussed with you upon application to the business office of the telephone company.

FREUDIAN PLAY ON SCREEN AT THE RICHMOND

A daring drama, unusual in theme and treatment, skillfully directed and superbly acted, "The Crystal Cup," First National's production of Gertrude Atherton's novel, which opened last night at the Richmond theatre, is easily one of the finest pictures seen here in many a month.

"The Crystal Cup" goes into the intricate and intriguing matter of psychoanalysis and the interesting discoveries of Freud. It reflects the turbulent soul of a sensitive woman, oppressed by an unhappy experience of early youth, which affects her conduct and outlook on life for years.

It affords Dorothy Mackail, featured in the feminine part, her greatest screen role, a role in which the actress acquires herself so creditably as to place her in the first rank of motion picture artists.

Jack Mulhall brings his likable personality and distinct histrionic ability to the serious role of "Geoffrey" in which he is featured opposite Miss Mackail. Rockliffe Fellowes' interpretation of the brilliant, successful novelist is a finely drawn and carefully studied bit of acting. Jane Winton, Edythe Chapman, Clarence Selwyn are excellent in supporting roles.

Other film features on the same program include Charlie Chaplin in one of his greatest comedies entitled "Easy Street"; and the seventh thrilling chapter of "The Crimson Flash," featuring Cullen Landis.

FOREIGN WAR VETS TO FORM DRUM CORPS

The local post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars is planning to have a drum and bugle corps in the near future, according to information received from George Ford, the Post Commander, and President of the corps. Members of the post who were interested in the forming of the bugle corps met at the Memorial Building on Tuesday, February 7th, and elected their president George Ford, secretary and treasurer, Fred Heeger.

At that time it was decided to have a whist party on March 14th, for the purpose of raising funds to buy equipment for the corps. To committees were appointed, one to handle the whist party, tickets, prizes, and the like, and the other to look into the business of purchasing the drums, bugles, etcetera. Both these committees are functioning and to date several dozen tickets have been sold for the whist party, which promises to be a large affair, with a floor lamp for the door prize, and at least twenty other prizes, some of which have been donated by some of the merchants along the avenue.

After the meeting on Tuesday evening, during which there were more than a dozen new men initiated by the crack degree team from Waterhouse Post of

Gets The "Inside" On The Coal Strike

PIERCING A HAZE OF BUNCOMBE, Florentio H. LaGuardia, rapid-fire representative at Washington, went to the Pennsylvania coal fields himself to investigate reports of striking miners. He found these reports to be true. Above he is shown (center) at Curry, Pa., pit where coal is mined by union workers for strike victims.

Fruitvale, there was a short but business-like meeting of the drum corps, at which further details of the coming whist party were discussed, and also the proposition of purchasing the equipment as soon as the necessary funds have been raised. It is the intention of the boys to have the drum corps available for any functions which may require its services, as soon as it becomes proficient in the art of doing its duty. Also, it intends to have the bass drum decorated with the name and number of the post, and the fact that it is from Richmond, so that whenever it is out of the city on parade, folks will know that Richmond is alive.

APPRENTICES OF SANTA FE TELL OF TRIP

D. R. Cook, Santa Fe official, has just received a letter from the Santa Fe apprentices who are on their way to Cleburne, Texas, to attend the convention of apprentices and to uphold the Richmond shops in the contest to be played on the basketball court. The letter as written to Cook has been given to the press that the fans and the public in general may see what the boys have to say.

"Somewhere, en route, on board the Santa Fe Convention Special, 'Cleburne or bust' has become the motto of the apprentice boys from Richmond as they are propelled through the deserts toward Texas. Cards, novels and a bit of snow-balling has been the gist of fun making as out travel progresses.

"From the poppy meadow at Bakersfield desert lands in Arizona and now the snow clad peaks and wastes of New Mexico, the fellows are enjoying really wonderful sights.

"Charley Tevin seems to be the hard luck baby of the gang. He lost his wallet in Oakland before boarding the train, but was quickly rescued by one of the sextet. Again he proved himself incapable without a chaperon when he lost his meal rate order. He was again lucky in having it returned.

"He has taken Mr. Poole's advice in regard to his money, as every night he throws his wad in his sock and throws it under his pillow. This makes things sort of disastrous for the smelling facilities, but 'Charlie' stands it bravely.

"Not many girls around are the only protests from 'Sheke' John Anthur, 'Bill' Gualdoni, and Paul Villalobos. They are soothed by the others when told that all the fair damsels in Cleburne will greet the delegates with smiles.

"All the boys were 'swamped' with souvenirs upon leaving Needles, the Indian squaws acting as vendors of hand made beaded purses and arrows."

"The letter was signed the 'Invincible Sextet,' John Anthur, Bill Gualdoni, Paul Villalobos, Charlie Tevin, Bow Bowen, and Charlie Bowen.

Does It Hurt To Be Born? Question Worries England

LONDON, Feb. 24.—All England at present is suffering the pangs of a heated argument over child birth. The question heard on every hand in debating forums is: Does the baby know of the pain involved? It does, say one branch of disputants who are arguing that the baby suffers greater pain than the mother. "Nonsense!" comes the reply, and so the battle rages.

It is asserted on the one hand that being born is very painful for the baby, and on the other hand this theory is denied. Opponents of the thesis that babies suffer during child-birth assert that babies feel nothing until they howl, and that is why doctors have to slap them in order to instill life into their bodies.

STARTING THE DISPUTE
The dispute was first started by Dr. David Forsyth, consulting physician to the Evelina Hospital for Children, in a lecture here. He asserted that psycho-analytical investigations had revealed the act of birth was worse even for the child than for the mother. Dr. Forsyth explained:

"The experiences of a child being born are nothing less than terrible. There are afterwards some dim memory of these experiences, and formation of the opinion that the world is not a highly desirable place."

Leading doctors, physicians and obstetricians have expressed their views pro and con through the columns of the London press, and one prominent obstetrician, whose name was withheld, was quoted by the Evening Standard as follows:

"A baby, at the moment of birth, has no actual conscious life. It has little more than vegetable life. During the process of birth, it does not even breathe, and, until it does, is not really a live human being and can feel nothing."

"It lies in the hand at first a flaccid mass, like a lump of putty unable to move an arm, a leg or anything else. The first breath comes with the first cry. If it does not howl it cannot live. The reason why it sometimes has to be slapped is because that is necessary to make it cry and cause it to take in breath."

BABY HAS NO MEMORY
"The ability to feel pain acutely does not come, as a rule, for some weeks. A week old child can be operated on without an anaesthetic because it cannot experience the pain."

"This talk of remembering being born is the kind of rubbish that psycho-analysts enjoy indulging in. It has no real scientific foundation. They say sometimes that a man

Senate Seeks Denver Oilmen As Witnesses In Oil Scandal

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Taking further steps to unravel the mystery of the Continental Trading Company's $2,080,000 Teapot Dome slush fund, the senate public lands committee subpoenaed additional witnesses today.

Chairman Gerald P. Nye, announced that officials of the Western Oil Fields Corporation of Denver, who figured in the Continental deal, will be summoned to testify at hearings next week.

Their testimony is sought, Senator Nye said, in an effort to locate the names of other possible recipients of Teapot Dome slush fund bonds, Myron F. Blackmer, son of H. M. Blackmer, famous missing witness, will be heard at the committee's hearings tomorrow.

ADMITS PROFITS

Blackmer will be questioned with reference to his father's participation in the Continental Trading Company deal. Testimony given at yesterday's session revealed that the senior Blackmer already has acknowledged making $763,000 in profits from the transaction. Robert Rao, of the Dominion Bank of Canada, and officials of the Liberty National Bank, New York, also will be questioned.

Indications that the senate will be asked to take steps to keep Colonel Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, in custody should the Supreme Court hand down its decision in the oil man's habeas corpus appeal before congress reconvenes next December, were given by Senator Nye.

TO ARREST STEWART

He plans to introduce a resolution authorizing the senate sergeant-at-arms to take Col. Stewart in custody as soon as the Supreme Court hands down its decision and hold the Standard chairman until he can be hailed before the bar of the senate for contempt.

Senator Nye said this action "will of course be based on the probability that the Supreme Court would deny Stewart's appeal and further that such a denial would be announced next fall before congress reconvenes."

Non-Suit Granted, County Case Ends

MARTINEZ, Feb. 24.—Faced with the granting of a non-suit motion, attorneys for Miss Bertha Rogers of Oakland yesterday dismissed in the Alameda County Superior Court an action for $5,680 against Contra Costa County.

The suit was instituted by the girl to recover for injuries she sustained in an automobile accident on the Tunnel Highway a year ago, and, which, she charged, were due to county negligence.

Miss Rogers contended that an automobile in which she was riding struck a barrel left on the highway by a county maintenance crew. Through testimony of Road Overseer Sangermaster it was established the barrel was three and one half feet from the paved portion of the road and guarded an open culvert.

Deputy District Attorney James F. Hoy sought granting of non-suit motion on the ground that the plaintiff had failed to show notice and knowledge of the person in authority that a dangerous highway condition existed. When the court indicated that in view of this contention and Sangermaster's testimony that a non-suit would be granted Miss Rogers' attorneys moved for dismissal.

WAGS WANTED RECORD-HERALD

SAN FRANCISCO CLASSIFIED THIRD IN U. S. PORTS

Islands. 100 industrial plants on the water-front are owned by the state and operated by the Board of State Harbor Commissioners. The public ownership and operation of the Belt line, with reasonable charges and equal facilities to all, places this port in a position to give fair and efficient service to all shippers.

"The terminal facilities at San Francisco have been designed particularly for handling miscellaneous cargo. There are 15 miles of berthing space and 5,000,000 square feet of cargo area. There are more than 35 important warehouses available for storage of business moving through the port.

OWNED BY STATE

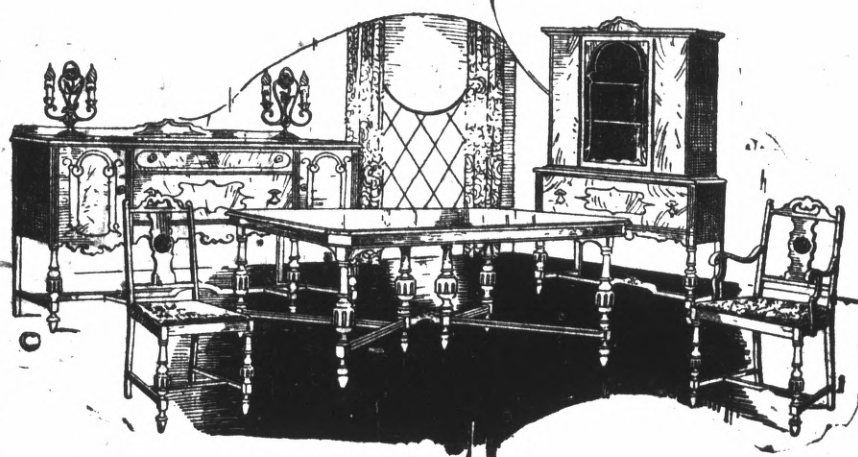

"San Francisco is the only port in the States where the water front is owned and has been developed by the state, and where also the public terminal developments have been connected with one another and with rail carriers by a Belt line owned and operated by the state. It is a shining example of efficient control of terminal and interchange facilities, with a minimum of congestion and delay. The flat switching charge between any two points on the Belt line served to avoid the over-development and congestion which tends to occur where ports are improperly divided into zones for switching purposes. In this respect, San Francisco is an example of efficiency which many ports would do well to emulate."

OAKLAND PORT

"Oakland and Alameda possess great commercial potentialities on account of their convenient location with reference to rail communication and on account of the large areas of land suitable for industry. Their water-borne commerce has accordingly grown rapidly. In 1925 it was 2,767,000 tons the largest of record; of this 320,000 tons were foreign, and 1,070,000 tons coastwise. Oakland (applying the name to the water fronts of both cities) has thus already become a national port of importance. The local authorities of the two cities are fully alive to the responsibility imposed upon them of this fact, for developing their ports in an economical fashion."
